The Better They Are The Less You See

Cause for rejoicing is the announcement today that the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department is going to resume its laudable practice of putting on an annual benefit variety show with two performances at Sunset School Auditorium July 20-21.

Here is an opportunity for the town to demonstrate in a practical, concrete way, by buying tickets with enthusiasm, how it appreciates the protection the unpaid service of these men gives to its $6,774,830 worth of improvements and personal property (see Peter Mawdsley's Assessment Roll and multiply by two), not to mention merchandise and fixtures on Ocean Avenue, Dolores Street and environs.

It may be fun, though risky, to hook onto the shiny red truck and, to the accompaniment of wailing siren and clanging bell, go booming to a whopping big blaze and in view of the bug-eyed spectators, to plunge into flaming buildings dragging hose and swinging axes, but it isn't very entertaining to jump out of a warm bed into the clammy night and bat through a drizzly fog to squirt a hose up somebody's chimney which caught on fire because it needed cleaning or to give first aid to a short circuited light cord in somebody's bathroom, and these latter occasions are a fair example of almost all the fire calls in Carmel. There are no big fires, with the accompanying opportunity for glory and heroics because the volunteers don't let there be big fires. They get there while the big fires are still little, and put them out while the prospective admiring spectators are still snoring between the sheets. The better they are, the less opportunity there is for the town to see how good they are. But the town knows, and it will welcome the chance it has now to show the volunteers that it knows and appreciates.

Morse Speaker At Republican Meet

Guest speaker at an informal meeting of the Monterey County Republican Central Committee last night, S. F. B. Morse gave a report on his attendance at the Republican Convention in Chicago.

The meeting was held at the Pilot Restaurant in Monterey.

Mawdsley Praised For Work On Roll At Council Meet

The general approval evident throughout town this week for City Clerk Peter Mawdsley's painstaking work in revising the assessment roll was crystallized in a tribute paid him by Councilman Fred Godwin when the roll was presented to the city council at its regular meeting Wednesday night.

As announced in The Pine Cone last week, Mawdsley has raised the assessment rate on city property from forty to fifty percent of valuation to correspond with the county rate and has lowered the tax rate in proportion so as not to effect the total tax revenue or to increase the tax bill of the property owner.

"The city clerk has done something very commendable," said Councilman Godwin. "It is a step forward, a simplification of the whole structure. I know he has given a lot of time, thought and labor to it. He has decided that it is the best for the community and I am with him in this program."

"He has the support of all of us," the Mayor added.

The assessment roll totals as presented by Mawdsley to the council are: real estate, $2,165,070; improvements, $3,146,815; personal property, $240,660. Gross totals: $5,552,545 less exemptions of $95,470—total: $5,457,075.

No one appeared to protest when the council met as a board of equalization at ten o'clock Thursday morning. They meet again this morning at ten and Wednesday of next week at ten in the morning to hear protests if there should be any.

Chairmen Give 3 Way Radio Talk For War Bond Drive

To promote the sale of 5th War Loan bonds, the chairmen of the three Peninsula cities: Harrison Godwin, chairman of the Carmel drive, Clyde Dyke of Pacific Grove and Albert Metz of Monterey, engaged in a discussion of the bonds over station KDON. One of the interesting features of the colloquy that was brought out was the amount of war goods that could be purchased by $25, $50 and $100 bonds. Another was the number of different types of bonds and treasury notes that were available for purchase under this 5th War Loan.

Earlier in the drive, sales had been slow but they have since picked up. Up to Thursday Carmel had subscribed a total of $289,759 or 40 per cent of the quota of more than $713,000.

Bill France Lines Up Talent For Volunteer Firemen's Big Benefit Variety Show

Swim Pool Opens Next Week For Play Program

Legal business attendant upon Mrs. Grace Howden's donation of her swimming pool to the recreation program for the summer months was completed on Thursday afternoon, with a trip by Superintendent J. W. Getsinger to Salinas to confer with District Attorney Anthony Brazil. It is expected that the pool will be put in operation over the week end so that the young people can enjoy it early next week, probably Monday. For the date of its opening phone the High School or call at Sunset playground.

By HARRIET RUDD, Director

The Sunset School playground is to be the center of a pet show being planned by the participants of the Carmel Recreational Program, during this coming week. Dogs, cats and other assorted pets are to be dressed up in their best manners and appearance to see who will be the shining example. Ribbons will be awarded to the winning contestants and their masters or mistresses. There will be a grand prize for the champion of the show. Among the various classes prizes will be given for: biggest pet, littiest pet, cutest pet, most useful pet, funniest pet and many more.

There has been good attendance during the past week, especially at the beach party on Friday which was held at Cooke's Cove on Carmel Beach. There were 55 boys and girls present and several parents. Hikes and games were enjoyed after everyone ate lunch. One of the games consisted of an act to be put on by each person present and many laughs were had. It is expected that a larger crowd will take part this coming Friday.

During the supervised play period each afternoon one hour of the day is spent in folk dancing and telling stories. On Fridays from 10 to 11 at the Harrison Memorial Library a story reading hour, under the direction of Mrs. Pauline Heisinger, is being held to include those children from the third grade level through high school. Discussion of good reading will be held along with actual reading of some interesting novel.

It is expected that more high school girls will turn out for the Red Cross Sewing and the U.S.O. Cooking classes on Tuesday and Thursdays for the work that is being done in those groups is so beneficial to the war effort. Good attendance has prevailed and it should continue.

NEW RESIDENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Winslow H. Dodge, formerly of San Francisco, have leased the A. Sauter house on Carmel Point and plan to make their permanent home here.

After two years of comparative silence, the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department will burst forth this month with fire works in the form of a rocket of entertainment, a benefit variety show which will play a two night stand to packed houses at Sunset auditorium July 20-21.

Bill France who is lining up the talent for the traditional firemen's show looks mysterious and dribbles out his information in a trickle with the deliberate intention of keeping the town in a dither of suspense. But this much he was willing to admit yesterday, and it's sufficient to guarantee two big nights of superior entertainment—if the fact that Bill France was in charge isn't enough guarantee—Bob (Chinaman Driving Model T Down Monterey Hill) Bratt is to be master of ceremonies. The Peavy Tumblers, headliners of the last fireman's show before the annual event was abandoned two years ago because of the raid the armed forces had made on local talent, will bend their flexible spines again for the benefit of the fire department and the delight of Carmel citizens. There will be music, dancing, patter and laughs, but if anybody wants any more information, they will have to wait until Mr. France again emerges from executive session with (Continued on page 4)

Carmel Police Lend A Hand To Monterey, Los Angeles Depts.

Carmel Police were credited with assists this week to the Monterey and Los Angeles police departments.

Locating him through a description of his car, the local department took into custody Gene Morgan wanted in Monterey for alleged battery on his wife and theft of her jewelry on Wednesday of last week.

For the Los Angeles police, Chief Roy Fraties filled out the missing links in the chain of events that are likely to lead to a forgery conviction of a juvenile, age 17, who used a checking account at the Bank of Carmel as a cache for money, presumably obtained from checks forged in Los Angeles. The Los Angeles department, picking up the boy on his return south, teletyped his description and his several aliases to Fraties. From this description, Mrs. Patricia Wagner, at the Bank of Carmel, was able to identify him as the youth who had opened a checking account there several weeks ago. Questioning local merchants to whom the young man had given checks, Fraties discovered that he had rented a cottage here and made a number of purchases of house furnishings and clothing. Positive identification of the youth was obtained through the card he had filled out in opening the checking account at the Bank of Carmel.

Phyllis Jones Snags Medal At AAU Swim Meet

In competition with the outstanding aquatic stars of the western states, Phyllis Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell H. Jones, Dolores and Fourth, won first prize in the 100 meters breast stroke at the Far Western AAU Championship meet at Fleishacker Pool in San Francisco, Tuesday.

Commander Jack Dempsey of the United States Coast Guard, former heavyweight champion, presented her with the medal which Carmel friends were admiring when it arrived here yesterday, sent by Phyllis to her father.

Phyllis, a graduate of Sunset and Carmel High School with the class of '43, has just completed her Freshman year at San Jose State Teachers' College where she is preparing to be a physical education instructor. She has won five medals in the past four months at various meets throughout the state adding them to the collection which was begun with prizes won at swimming meets, in the Pacific Grove pool, and sorties into northern territory to carry off honors while she was still a student at Carmel High School.

In the big league contest at San Francisco Tuesday she represented the Oakland Swimming Association and contributed her part to the success of that organization which carried off top honors for the meet, nosing out the Olympic Club. In addition to her winning the 100 meter breast stroke, she participated in the relays and in the diving exhibitions.

She is expected home this week end to spend the summer vacation with her parents.

P. O. In Bloated Capitalist Class, Gains $18,118.99

Post office receipts took another jump according to Assistant Post Master Fred Mylar's financial report for the fiscal year July 1, 1943 to June 30, 1944.

Total receipts were $77,604.77 for this year against $58,485.78 for the preceding year, a gain of $18,118.99.

The quarterly reports indicate that the increase is being steadily maintained as receipts for the June quarter were $20,352.82 against last year's June quarter $15,357.33 a gain of $4,995.49. This year's June quarter totals also represent a gain over the totals for this year's March quarter, $17,578.95. As is the case throughout the year, the receipts this quarter are largely from sale of stamps, $18,500 and box rent, $1,600.

All of the figures for post office receipts do not include receipts for bond, war stamps and money order sales.

The increase automatically raises the postmaster's salary.

Lions Celebrate The Fourth With Family Barbecue

The Carmel Lions club celebrated the Fourth of July by entertaining their wives and children with a party at the Murphy pool up Carmel Valley.

Following a barbecue prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Gene Ricketts, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Weer, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Morehouse, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Goss and Frank Murphy, a short meeting was held at which the new officers were installed.

Outgoing President Lloyd Weer welcomed President Fred Decker and newly elected First Vice President Robert E. O'Brien, Second Vice Fred Goss, Secretary-Treasurer Ernest Morehouse, Tail Twister Andy Wiemann, Assistant Tail Twister Dr. W. B. Williams, Lion Tamer Carl Bensberg and Henry Overin and George Knapp who with Eben Whittlesey and Cliff Cook, make up the board of directors.

Ken Carleton took moving pictures of the party and gave a life saving demonstration in the pool around which much of the entertainment centered. Diving exhibitions were presented by Floyd Smith, Gene Ricketts, Andy Wiemann, Waldo Hicks, Robert Weaver, and Councilman Fred Godwin, one of the guests.

At the traditional drawing, one prize was won by Mrs. John C. Kucin, guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lew Kramer, and the other by Mrs. Floyd Smith.

Cheese Safe To Eat Says Health Officer

Dr. Kenneth C. Sheriff, Monterey County Health Officer, stated today that all cheese now on the market is entirely safe and that the public should not hesitate to avail themselves of this important, highly nutritious food product. It should be emphasized at this time that only a few types of cheese were implicated in the recent typhoid outbreak and that these brands have been removed from the market and cannot be sold to the public. In the future all cheese manufactured and sold in the State of California must be produced under laws passed by the legislature, at the special session, which will control unscrupulous trade practices and assure the public of a safe, pure product.

Cheese is one of the basic foods in a well balanced nutritious diet and its value as such, should not be minimized. Now that this product is in most instances point free, householders should use it to supplement their diet since they can be assured of a safe and wholesome food.

Grocery Truck Now AWOL Five Days

Carmel police this week are looking for Hazel McKinstry's delivery truck, Arthur C. Gibson's ticket to Chicago, and $200.

The truck was last seen parked Saturday evening in the vicinity of Mrs. McKinstry's store on Dolores street. The keys were in the ignition switch. The gas tank was half full. Carmel police have asked the sheriff's office, Monterey police and the state highway patrol to keep an eye out for an AWOL grocery truck. Meanwhile, Mrs. McKinstry's customers are seeing their orders unloaded from a milk truck borrowed from the Carmel Dairy which has a spare.

Gibson, a San Francisco resident, reported that he had been robbed of a ticket to Chicago and $200 while vacationing in Carmel last week end.

After Dark Plays Only 3 Times More At First Theatre

"After Dark" plays tomorrow night and Sunday nights at the First Theatre, Monterey, and the following Saturday night, July 16, making three more performances in all, when the successful melodrama of the Troupers of the Gold Coast will close, making way for the new show.

Directed by Wilma Bott, the lurid melodrama of a London "Silver Hell" gambling house, with an underground railway handy for attempted murders (always thwarted just in time) has delighted the applauding capacity audiences who have laughed hilariously at it since its opening last April.

The coming production which will open the week end of July 23, is the famous comedy of the 60's, "Fashion," in which many American stars have played. Douglas Hume is directing "Fashion."

Dogs Are Main Event At Cub Annual Picnic Sponsored By Lions

Any doubt as to whether "a good time was had by all" at the Cub Scout Picnic at Indian Village Saturday is readily dispelled by the following statistics: 110 hot dogs and four cases of soda pop were consumed by 22 Cubs, three Boy Scouts, three Lions, whose organization sponsored the event and three den mothers, Mrs. John Shepard, Mrs. Marquita Brey and Mrs. Clarence Canham.

The cubs, meeting at the Scout House at one o'clock were transported to the scene of the celebration in one of M. J. Murphy's trucks. Games and contests, the winners of which received prizes, were under the direction of Lloyd Weer assisted by Boy Scouts Dick Gargiulo, Ray Wermuth and Harry De Amaral. Fred Goss and Cliff Cook presided over the refreshments.

3 Carmel Men On Prop. 1 Committee

Announcement was made this week of the appointment of Mark Keller, chairman, Tom Riley and Andrew W. Martin of Carmel to the Veterans' Home and Farm Committee. ders and Charles Van Riper, who own the equipment, would donate it to the City. Councilman Fred Godwin and City Attorney Peter Ferrante were delegated to approach the three Abaloneys and point out to them what a fine and public spirited gesture on their part such a gift would be.

After some discussion of a letter from the president of the rationing board, C. M. Goldsworthy, presenting an account of expenditures of the board and asking for the continuance of the $25.00 contribution to the board from the city, the council decided that it needed more figures on disbursements before taking action. The Mayor pointed out that much of the ration work is done by the AWVS office in Carmel and before any contributions from the city are made to the board in Monterey, consideration should be given the local AWVS office.

Other business of the meeting:

The postponing of action of a letter from Phil Nesbit requesting the city enter into a contract with him to put up decorative street signs.

The reading of a letter from Councilman Bernard Rowntree expressing regret that he was unable to get leave from the hospital in San Francisco to attend the council meeting.

Miss Stilwell Describes The House On Magpie Lane, The Forbidden City

The Prince never set foot in his new palace in Peiping. He couldn't live in it because it was built on Magpie Lane, a bad omen for him, so he ordered his "Number One Boy" to have another built in a favorable location. It was this house on Magpie Lane that the family of General Joe Stilwell occupied in the Chinese city 200 years afterward, the home Miss Alison Stilwell knew in childhood, which she described Sunday afternoon in her talk on Life in Peiping at Sunset School Auditorium for the benefit of the welfare fund of the Daughters of the United States Army.

A plan of the palace on a large chart on the stage showing the arrangement of rooms, passages, gardens and courts was effectively supplemented by a large, water-color painting. The high wall around the grounds, the tiled roofs shadowed by graceful trees, the open spaces of the courts brought the plan to life; even the street with children playing and a tired peasant resting against the wall enhanced its atmosphere.

The speaker enlivened her account with entertaining glimpses of the customs, studies, pet crickets peculiar to the Chinese, the manners and interests of the people who are "so like Americans."

She explained a diagram of Peiping, showing location of the Forbidden City, walled in, where dwelt the emperor,—the city long closed to curious foreigners. Here business of the court and of the empire were carried on. Outside are the North city, the South city, the Central city, and a straight across, north to south and east to west run certain streets to the city gates. All merchants of any one ware are grouped together, for example on the "brass street," or "jade street;" here one goes and bargains for the things desired, where there are no fixed prices, no OPA to intervene between the matching of wits of purchaser and merchant. Sometime the merchant brings his wares to the house for display, and the purchaser may inspect and choose at leisure.

Another page on the chart showed drawings of the many articles used for the pet cricket, a dainty carved ivory box to carry it in, even the little creature's coffin! Drawings of native musical instruments were explained, but perhaps the most interesting page was given to the Chinese characters, or ideographs, of the written language. The building up of some of these characters and their meanings can be readily seen—after it is explained! But some characters are so intricate that their development is lost in history.

Ceremonies attendant upon important events, such as the birth of a child, its presentation, when about a month old, to relatives and friends, marriage customs, funerals, and the various devices to ward off evils on each of these occasions were interestingly described. At intervals models wearing beautiful Chinese costumes came on the stage to illustrate the description. A Manchurian prince wore a bright red hat and dark blue robe heavily embroidered in gold, while the princess had a high, flat headdress shaped much like a cloverleaf, and light blue dress exquisitely embroidered. The bride of earlier days was all in red—for happiness—with hood and embroidered dress trimmed in bands of white. The modern bride may wear a pink dress and veil. A modern Chinese girl wears a long, slender dress slit up the sides to the knee; the one shown was dark blue, with pipings and facings of old gold.

The Sunset stage was appropriately set with Chinese furnishings: a beautiful and brilliant embroidered tapestry at the back, depicting an important family festival; high carved tables bearing candles, incense sticks, and vases of decorative lotus; carved ebony chairs, and a large drum with lacquer sides resting in its polished wooden frame. The walls and tables in the lobby carried a display of Miss Stilwell's water colors, of great variety, from a simple and exquisite spray to intricate landscapes and figures of the Oriental people. There were dainty fans, a single bulb and flower, scrolls, panels, and large framed pictures in delicate coloring, showing the versatility of her talent, a display not soon to be forgotten.

Young women modeling the Chinese costumes for Miss Stilwell were: Patty Bates, Mrs. Ernest Easterbrook, Mrs. Walter Winton, Betty and Rosemary Powell.

Robert De Yoe Tells Of Flight Over Nile Valley

Bob De Yoe went up for his first airplane ride last month—in a "Flying Boxcar" over the Nile Valley. In a V-Mail letter to his mother, Mrs. Maud De Yoe, he describes the trip.

3175 Sig Service Co.
NAFW ATC Station 7
APO 788 New York, N. Y.
June 4, 1944.

Dear Mother:

Several days ago I had my first ride in an airplane, and now want to go again. I told you about Nick Mitchell who has one leg shorter than the other. Well, he is a mechanic, and a member of a crew who were putting a new engine on a C 54. When such a thing is done the plane in question is taken up for a test to find out if it is all right. Nick had been keeping me informed on the probable time of take off of this ship. He called me up Friday afternoon and told me it was going up in a half hour. I got over there with a couple of others and after a short wait we got on. Before telling you any more, let me first tell you what kind of a plane we went up in. A C54 is next to the largest transport plane built. It is a four motorized giant, and is also known as "The Flying Boxcar." For further information you might ask Dr. Clark because, if he flew back to the states, it is more than likely that is the type of plane he went back in.

We taxied up and around to the take off strip, and then after a little more checking and waiting we got going. Boy, Oh Boy! when I say we got going I mean we really took off. What a surge of power those engines put out! And you could really feel those power plants pulling with all they had. Despite the size of this airplane it gets off the ground in a big hurry. It needs less room than most other planes that are smaller.

Everything looks so different from the air. The desert is one vast monotonous place with varying shades of yellow. Where we are stationed it is just out in the middle of nowhere. The Nile Valley and river are really beautiful to look at. The valley itself is a patchwork of squares and rectangles with varying shades of green and brown. Native villages are all the same in colour—a muddy brown and nothing else. The Nile River stretches off into the dim distances curving this way and that. Everything looks like a huge relief map. The highways are plainly visible against the contrasting yellow of the desert. We could, by following the highways through the city, find familiar places which we now know so well.

We got up to about 6000 feet and here we did some banking in which the plane just about seemed to stand itself on one wing. It made one feel kind of funny in the head. Coming down was pretty rough, as if we were going down in jerks. It reminded me of an elevator. Taxing in, we all had to get up in front so that the tail wouldn't go down. These planes have a tricycle landing gear. So much for my first ride. Hope to go up again soon.

Many tons of love,
Bob.

This is a battery

Like with your purse, it's what's inside a battery that counts.

It costs lots of electricity to run your car. And the battery pays the check.

Until one day, (the day you're in a terrible hurry) you step on the starter and nothing happens.

So this ad is to scare you into keeping up your battery. Because once it's out of current-cy your car is a dead pigeon.

Scared? Well, turn the problem over to experts. Shell people know all about battery upkeep. (They even have new batteries to sell to people who refuse to be scared into keeping up their old ones.)

And they know all about Shellubrication, too. That's a service to protect all your car's expensive gears, shackles and things.

Important? Well, rather! 5000 cars are being scrapped every day by War-time Stop and Go driving.

WILLKIE'S ARTICLES

The contributed articles that appear on this page are the opinions of the authors and are not an expression of editorial policy of this paper. The Pine Cone-Cymbal invites free expression and open discussion of all subjects of general interest. Especially is the Welcome Sign out on this page to political discussions from partisans of both parties now during the period before election.—W. C.

BY DR. E. O. SISSON

The six newspapers that invited Mr. Willkie to write his series of articles recently did genuine public serve to the nation. The articles challenge both parties and the whole people. They contain more of that rare and precious thing called statesmanship than any like bulk of writing issued in the last ten years. The invitation was admirable journalism and Mr. Willkie's vigorous response was good politics, in the true sense of that much-abused word.

The weakest of the articles is the first: yet even here the core and substance is sound. Mr. Willkie calls upon us to face the fact that we have, and must have, a strong central government. He reminds his fellow Republicans that their party began the movement for Federal power in the crisis of the 60's and have done the heavy work in carrying it to its present gigantic proportions. He expounds eloquently the necessity of such a government, to "represent us abroad with dignity and power . . . lead the world to tangible economic and political cooperation . . . vitalize our economy, eliminate its abuses, and . . . preserve and extend the freedom of its citizens."

But he seems to forget that any government with such power is bound to pinch some fingers and kindle many animosities, and also he forgets that at the present moment the federal government is carrying on the vastest military actions of history, on top of its extraordinary domestic duties. He picks up the cries of those whose fingers have been pinched that we have lost "government by law", that we suffer from "the Administration's arbitrary use of vast authority," when everyone knows that law is always arbitrary to those whose freedom it limits and whose projects it forbids. He charges "inefficiencies and reckless extravagance" to Federal Agents, although two thirds of all national expenditures are being made by the Army and Navy,—both, as happens, departments conducted by republican cabinet members.

The most serious weakness, however, at this point, is the assertion or even mere implication of these wrongs, without a jot of evidence being offered or even hinted at. It is "argument by innuendo," quite unworthy of Mr. Willkie. There may be truth in the charges; indeed under the unprecedented strains and pressures of the present crisis, it is certain that there must be errors, abuses, wastes, even injustices; it would be fantastic to believe in perfection under the circumstances. But until we have a "bill of particulars" we must decline to accept the charges as anything more than charges awaiting evidence and evaluation.

The second article is nothing less than startling, and quite as much to Democrats as to Republicans,—a demand in unequivocal terms for full constitutional rights for negroes. Willkie is not

NIGHT ORCHARD

The cherry trees had already given of their fruit
And now they stretched arm light with leaves,
Their long sleeves of shadows falling on the satin moonlight.
In the silence I could hear their voices,
Sense some deep significance,
So I waited, listening—
But they spoke a tongue that I could not translate.
Yet, as love needs no words,
I felt the rapture of that orchard.

The trees were living things—still only to the sight,
Their sap flowed as my own blood,
They had known the kiss of spring—
As I a love that blossomed and bore fruit.

Now I am light with leaves.
Long shadows fall across my silver nights
And I can understand at last, the meaning of that orchard
"There is life and strength in giving—
Beauty in remembering,
Love does not die when it has given of its fruit.
The roots are buried deep in the rich soil of the heart.
The sap still flows, and Love will bloom again
And give new fruit to thirsting hearts."

—DOROTHY LOOSLEY.

WATER STUDY

The swan's neck moved a water-line
Inverting itself in the sun on water.
The man stood thin by the still lagoon
Floating wide in the shine of water.
As he turned away from the lake of swans
His shadow flat on the lake went under.
The swan left circles on water-shine
As it followed the form of the man down under.

THE END OF ALL RIVERS

The shuddering years are all before me,
Huddled shadows in that unnamable valley
I must follow to the end.
There shall be no white hands to hold my bleeding ones,
No voice, no music.
Like an insane god I shall move through the valley
Clawing shadows for shadows,
Knowing the end.

My hands shall make pictures unseen
For a thousand years to a day,
And my feet shall leave trackless the valley
That is trackless before me.

There's a river down in the darkness,
Its ending is known to me now.
I know the end of all rivers—
Now.

—CHARLES FRISBIE.

content with "vague assurances of future action expressed in pious platitudes," which he warns his fellow Republicans, will not tempt the colored vote away from the Democratic party. He calls flatly for the two legal steps needed to remedy two of the most serious disabilities of the Negro,—the Federal anti-poll tax law, and a Federal law covering lynching.

In the next three articles Mr. Willkie presents a social and economic program for the United States which will make the stand-patters in both parties rub their eyes, and will give some of his old cronies in financial circles the creeps. He makes short work of the plea that social security is fatal to enterprise and initiative; on the contrary he declares, "one cannot enjoy the freedoms of such a society (with free enterprise) without a minimum of economic security." Again he drives through to particulars: "Complete medical care should be available to all." Above all, he perceives one momentous fact that most politicians miss, the crucial place of children in our economic system and their demands upon equal opportunity. "We have left the feeding, clothing, shelter and medical care of our children to be determined by their parents' income alone. It hasn't worked and never can work . . . The children of America are the future of America."

He deals ruthlessly with some of the most beloved catchwords of the shysters: "All the talk of a 'return' to free enterprise and free initiative is merely an expression of feeling, not a solution of problems. We are not going to return to anything. We must never go backward." And he puts his finger on the governmental safeguards which alone can guarantee any real freedom in free enterprise: "New and effective methods must be found for counteracting and controlling monopoly and monopolistic prices. They are the Trojan horse of the free enterprise system."

All this he applies to the looming problem of demobilization and the resumption of peacetime economy: "Under such releases, under such safeguards, our genius for production will go a long way toward solving the problems of a demobilization economy. There will be employment; there will be good wages; there will be goods to buy. There will be better living for all. Add to this Government's part in the picture and the sincere cooperation of industry, labor and government to distribute the strains and you have the American answer to the problem."

The final article, on foreign policy, is equally positive. "We have learned conclusively," he writes, "that in the modern world the United States cannot survive militarily, economically or politically without close and continuing cooperation with the other nations of the world . . . The United States should use its sovereignty in cooperation with other powers to create an effective international organization for the good of all." It is true that these are, to use Mr. Willkie's own words in criticizing the administration, "protestations of noble aims," and no doubt many in his own party will sneer at them as such. But all such sneering is either shallow or perverse, for every great human advance must begin with noble aims. In spite of Mr. Willkie's criticisms of the present administration, it must be clear that these noble aims have already been turned into concrete actuality in many areas, the unprecedented unity of the war effort of the four great

Rico, Brosnan, Beverton and Co. Take Over Carmel City Schools---

BY SUPERINTENDENT J. W. GETSINGER

The hurry and bustle, the noise and shouts, the running and laughter die away quickly, when vacation comes, but some of the work of the school goes along just the same. Our principal activities are maintenance and getting ready for another year. This year we have the summer recreation program, and the classes of the Carmel Adult School, in addition.

The first thing Mr. Rico undertook at the high school, starting even before all the students were out of sight, was the washing and waxing of all the floors. Did you ever try to scrub 44,000 square feet of floor? First the scrubbing machine, with soap and water, then the mops with clean water, repeated three times, then the fresh coat of wax. The gym had to have special treatment. Two coats of gym finish (varnish) were applied after all the rubber marks, and all the dirt had been carefully removed. This finish is applied with a mop, the area is too large for paint brushes.

Next all the woodwork, desks, lighting fixtures, chairs, and blackboards are washed, with soap, water and suitable solvents. In places the steel wool has to be used. Meanwhile the painters have started to work.

Because of the glass broken by the outside boys last spring all the steel sash on the office building had to be painted. Because it has been four years since they were finished we decided to finish the job and paint all the steel sash in the original buildings. The plywood wainscoatings are then to be given one coat of flat varnish. They were finished with a stain, originally, and varnish applied now will prevent their having to be painted in another year or so.

And the carpenter is to put in two more cooking units in the homemaking room, assisted by the plumbers and electricians, move a cabinet from room three to the library, to make room three a social sciences laboratory, and to make room for more new books which are arriving and being catalogued by Mrs. Down in the library.

In the art room more tack board is to be put up, some shelves built in, a temporary blackboard made permanent, and a table covered with linoleum. In the shop we are to have some new fluorescent lights to improve the mechanical drawing room, and a coat of white paint for the ceiling to improve the light in the whole building. There are to be some new vents in room one, to permit cross ventilation on warm afternoons, and a series of new bulletin boards scattered around the corridors, so that student activity posters may be put on them instead of nailed to the adobe pillars, the ceilings, or the posts in the corridors.

The shop is also to have individual switches on each ceiling lamp, so that we may not have to use so much electricity when only part of the shop is busy. Vents are to be put into several doors in the gym, to assist in clearing out the rooms when football suits and such things are hung up after a warm game.

At Sunset School the procedure is much the same. The largest undertaking is the new stone ramp, replacing the old and dangerous winding stone stairways. John Batten and his stonemasons have this nearly completed, it looks massive and simple, has an easy grade, and should prevent many skinned knees and other injuries.

The roofs of the primary buildings must be partially reshingled this year, there are a few leaks in the tile roofs to be repaired, a new examination room is being partitioned in the nurse's office, a wind-breaker fence is to be placed on the north end of the lunch court, an easel panel is being built clear across one wall of the art room, and the library shelves are being rebuilt. This was necessary because the old shelves were fixed in place and could not be moved. Apparently it was assumed that children's books would all be of the same height. And the distance between shelves was just enough so that about half the books had to be turned on edge. The books being of various heights, the new shelving will care for them as they come.

Scrubbing and cleaning is also under way at Sunset. Mr. Brosnan and Mr. Beverton had a schedule of several pages in length, ranging from scrub the floor to put a nail near the door for the thermometer. Every desk and chair is to be washed, ceilings and walls wiped down with a damp cloth and washed where necessary, all the toilet facilities given an extra scrubbing, the music room moved down to the cafeteria while the library, used last year as a music room, is to be set up as a class room for next year. Two class rooms and the library are to be painted.

In the offices the files are carefully gone over, all grades and student's records posted, new programs of studies checked against all the former records, supplies purchased for next year, book lists checked, budgets completed and reports filed. The office at the high school is open Mondays through Fridays from nine to four all summer.

Meanwhile the teachers are busy with their plans for next year. Several of them are taking special courses at the various university summer sessions, all the way from Quebec to Los Angeles. Others are preparing new outlines, gathering materials from new books, magazines and other sources, checking over last year's results, and consulting with the principals and with outside authorities on new developments, improved methods, new reference books, etc.

The trustees will hold their regular meetings, changing the date during the summer to July 6 and August 7, the latter being the annual budget hearing. Their work of selecting new teachers for next year is now complete and they can now give time to school policies, powers being the most momentous case just now.

Mr. Willkie's plea for full employment, better living for all, sincere cooperation of industry, labor and government, is also a noble aim; yet it too has seen no little realization. We have the right to believe that Mr. Willkie is deeply sincere in proclaiming them, and in spite of his dissent we may still believe that the administration is sincere too, in the face of stupendous difficulties and perils, and in spite of many errors in detail. And such intelligent and noble aims, sincerely held and energetically pursued, are the sole and only means of saving the Republic and the world. Thanks to Wendell Willkie for his powerful advocacy and to the press for broadcasting his message.

"The Mission of Christendom" will be the sermon theme by Dr. James E. Crowther next Sunday morning at the Church of the Wayfarer. It is based on the text, "God was in Christ reconciling the world unto Himself, and hath given unto us the word of reconciliation." Reconciliation is the biggest problem before mankind today in this world of strife. The organ music, played by Elinor Smith, will be as follows: "Largo," Spurni; "Cast Thy Burdens On the Lord," Wilson; "Prelude," Bohm; "Sonnet," Grenados; "Postlude," Walczynski.

The Church School is at 9:45; the Church Service at 11:00. Visitors are cordially invited to share with us this hour of worship.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Sacrament" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, July 9, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. Other Bible citations will include: "Then cometh Jesus from Galilee to Jordan unto John, to be baptized of him. But John forbade him, saying, I have need to be baptized of thee, and comest thou to me? And Jesus answering said unto him, Suffer it to be so now: for thus it becometh us to fulfill all righteousness. Then he suffered him," (Matt. 3: 13-15).

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker

John Henry Berry

In the death last Saturday evening of John Henry Berry the community lost a highly-esteemed and public-spirited citizen. Mr. Berry, who has made his home here for the past nine years, died at the age of 44 in a Monterey hospital following an illness of six weeks.

A native of Missouri, he came to California in his youth and spent the greater part of it in Glendale. For several years prior to 1935 he was engaged in garage business in the San Joaquin Valley and since coming to Carmel, where he built a permanent home for his family at the corner of Third and Lobos, he has been associated with the A. D. H. company.

Mr. Berry was a charter member of the Carmel Special Police, organized in December, 1941, and has served continuously on the volunteer force, for the past two years with the rank of sergeant.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Edith Berry, a lieutenant in charge of the ambulance unit of the Carmel Valley Motor Corps; two sons: Donald Eugene Berry, U.S. Marine Corps, now in the South Pacific, and Thomas Berry, who arrived in Carmel Saturday on leave from his duties with the U.S. Maritime Service, and an aunt, Mrs. Claudia Springer of Glendale.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon at Howell's Mission Chapel, Monterey, with Dr. James E. Crowther officiating.

Peter Grimm Joins Other Chelopi In W. Burke's Window

Another over-sized turtle has joined Earl and Ray Wermuth's giant turtles from Ascension Island in Billy Burke's window on Dolores street, a highly polished, stuffed specimen about two feet in diameter. He wears a bitter expression on his countenance, which probably accounts for his name, Peter Grimm, and has such a complicated and suspicious history that he would probably be of considerable interest to the F. B. I. if he wasn't stuffed.

His present owners, Mrs. Louise Hasty and her daughter, Hope, say they got him as a gift from Hap, Mrs. Hasty's son, when the latter went into the army. Hap told them he got it from a Russian, Mike Casseroff, who said he found it aboard a Jap fishing boat when he took possession after purchasing the boat from its owners prior to their departure for an internment camp. With the Russo-Sinese boat transaction in Monterey shortly after Pearl Harbor, recorded history of Peter Grimm ceases. How and where he joined up with the original Jap crew, when and over what waters he travelled before he came into the Russian's possession, no one knows. And Peter Grimm isn't saying.

QUITE A FEW STILL DRIVING

Fifteen hundred people in the Carmel area intend to continue to drive their cars during the next year according to Assistant Post Master Fred Mylar's report on post office sales of Federal Automobile Tax stamps. $7,500 worth of the stamps have been sold to date at $5.00 per stamp.

Eddy: "The baptism of Spirit, washing the body of all the impurities of flesh, signifies that the pure, in heart see God and are approaching spiritual life and its demonstration," (p. 241).

Flues And Seals Bane Of Fire And Street Departments

The Carmel fire department would have been able to turn in a report to the city council without mention of a single alarm for the month of June but for a flue fire at the Normandy Inn, June 6, which resulted in no damage other than to the Volunteers' no-hit, no-run record for the month.

An odorous sea lion, washed up on Carmel Beach and subject of considerable caustic remark on the part of citizens before it was removed for interment dashed the no-funeral-this-month hopes of the street department. After attending to the seal and laying five new sewer laterals, the department apparently felt itself in need of aesthetic relief, for it went to work cleaning off the aluminum paint vandals had smeared on the statue of St. Francis in Devendorf Plaza. Other activities of the crew of two men, augmented by three high school boys for the last fifteen days of the month, was the cleaning up of the Forest Theatre in preparation for the V Bond Bouts, painting white the parking lines on Ocean Avenue, with a touch of red paint here and there, trimming and caring for the parkways and the routine Friday street sweeping.

In addition to its one alarm, the fire department answered one service call and twenty-two ambulance calls during the month.

City Judge George P. Ross in his report shows the receipt of $142.00 in fines, $60.00 for general offenses and $82.00 for traffic violations.

RED CROSS NEWS

By HELEN A. FIELD

Magazines form a large part of the reading material of Americans, be they civilians or men in the Armed Forces. Especially for the men in hospitals it is important that there be interesting reading to do. We find that in Fort Ord Hospital there is a great interest in magazines on the part of the patients.

Miss Jennie Neill, Assistant Field Director at the Red Cross Recreation Building at the Hospital, requested new magazines for the patients at the March Meeting of the Mission Trails Camp and Hospital Council. She said that much-used, ragged ones are discouraging to a sick man. As usual the members of the Council responded enthusiastically and were able to report at the April meeting donations of money for subscriptions to many magazines. Up to June 13th one hundred fifty had been given. Miss Neill feels that this is an adequate number for the present.

Carmel Red Cross, as well as the other eight chapters that belong to the Council, of course is working on this patients' reading problem. Our Gray Ladies are in charge of this work. They use the three hundred dollars, so generously donated by Bundles for America, Inc. for the purpose, to purchase odd copies of magazines asked for by the patients and for little classics now available in a size easily handled by a sick person. There was a demand for small dictionaries of which two hundred were bought and are now in the hands of our servicemen.

The Carmel Red Cross Gray Ladies also take to Fort Ord the many current issues of magazines Carmel residents leave at Red Cross Headquarters each week.

A Baby Is Born To The 1st Repl. Regiment, Depot 2

The accouchement took place on The Pine Cone Press Monday morning and the inky infant was promptly named by its proud pop, Sgt. Gordon Ayers, The Herald. It was presented with a flourish to the officers of the First Replacement regiment, Fort Ord, convened in solemn meeting, and receiving their nod of approval, it will continue to be published weekly by the A & R office and printed by The Pine Cone Press.

Its four junior size pages are full of chatter, regimental news, humor, general information, cuts, cartoons and good writing. Modesty forbids the Pine Cone from speaking of the smartness of its printed appearance. It is sufficient to say that the Powers in the Replacement regiment found it good.

Meanwhile, Gene Ricketts, high chief in charge of finance and promotion, is arranging for the printing of the tickets. Jack Montgomery, with his social committee and the Woman's Auxiliary, is planning the party to be held at the fire house for the entertainment of the actors after the show.

As an answer to Editor Castille, we tried to improve the paper in order to put it into a more glamorous category. With the help of more people than I have space to mention, we steadily improved until The Herald circulation jumped, and the request for copies and contributions exceeded our expectations.

"Now, we make a revolutionary move. This is the first edition to be printed, and we hope not the last. The possibilities presented by this journalistic transaction are unlimited in scope, and although this is an experimental edition, improvements can be made and The Herald will take its proper place befitting the trend of the First Regiment."
